We Will Remember

John Henry Foster Babcock was Canada's last surviving First World War Soldier. He died at his home in Spokane, Washington at the age of 109 on Thursday February 18th 2010. Jack, which he liked to be called rather than John, was an Eastern Ontario farm boy, born on a farm in Frontenac County at the turn of the last century. As the last surviving Veteran of the first Great War (1914-1918), his death was the last living link Canadians had to a conflict that is largely forgotten by today's generation - the end of an era.

At the request of Prime Minister Stephen Harper, I had the honour to present a letter of congratulations on the occasion of John Babcock's 108th birthday. At that time he was Canada's sole remaining Great War Veteran.

Renfrew County sent 1,670 to serve overseas during WWI with the Lanark and Renfrew Scottish Regiment. And, while we mourn the loss of those who did not return home, we celebrate those who did return. Some of those Veterans who came home from the first great war went on to serve in the Second World War twenty years later.

I am pleased to honour those soldiers who did not return home after WW I by sharing all their names in print from across Renfrew County. Their names are forever immortalized, carved in stone on cenotaphs in their local communities here in the beautiful Ottawa Valley.

We remember. As each year goes by and the ranks of the number of surviving veterans of World War II diminish, make a point to pause and say thank you to a veteran. It was through the sacrifice of those who did not return home that you have the privilege to live in a free, peaceful and democratic country.

On November 11th, and every day, we honour the memory of each serving man and women who died in service to their country, from the War of 1812 when Canada was in its infancy, to the conflicts of today, like Afghanistan. We will remember.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Gallant, MP
Renfrew Nipissing—Pembroke
